[www.FamilyFirstFinancial.com on May 30, 2023] Family First Financial Inc. ("Family First") has become aware of a data security Incident that may have resulted in an unauthorized access to your sensitive personal information. While we have not received any report of fraudulent misuse of the information, Family First sincerely regrets any inconvenience or concern that this matter may cause, and remains dedicated to ensuring the privacy and security of all information in our control.

What Happened? On April 30, 2023, Family First discovered an email account was potentially compromised ("Incident"). Upon discovery of this Incident, Family First promptly engaged a specialized cybersecurity firm to conduct a forensic investigation of its email environment to determine the nature and scope of the Incident. The investigation is still ongoing, however, out of full transparency, Family First is providing notice about the potential access to sensitive information by an unauthorized actor. Family First has not received any reports of fraudulent misuse of the information. Family First is working to identify all the specific individuals and the type of data that was potential accessed in order to provide sufficient notice to individuals. Family First will mail formal notice letters to those impacted individuals once they are identified.

What Information Was Involved? The investigation is still on going and the types of sensitive information involved is currently under research. If sensitive information is found to have been potentially compromised, the formal notice letter will identify the type of information involved.

What We Are Doing. Family First is committed to ensuring the privacy and security of all personal information in our care. Since the discovery of the Incident, Family First has taken and will continue to take steps to mitigate the risk of future issues. Specifically, Family First immediately reset account passwords, changed multifactor authentication settings, retrained employees, and reviewed policies and procedures. Family First also engaged a specialized cybersecurity firm to conduct a forensic investigation to determine the nature and scope of the Incident.

If there was unauthorized access to sensitive information, Family First will be offering complimentary credit monitoring and identity theft protection services to those impacted individuals. Notification letters will be sent to those impacted individuals with the information to enroll in the credit monitoring services. Family First strongly encourages all identified individuals to register for this free service.

What You Can Do. Family First encourages all members to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud, to review account statements, and to monitor credit reports for suspicious or unauthorized activity. Additionally, security experts suggest that individuals contact his/her financial institution and all major credit bureaus to inform them of such a breach and take the recommended steps to protect his/her interests, including the possible placement of a fraud alert on the credit file.

Sincerely, Family First Inc.

Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information

Credit Reports: You may obtain a copy of your credit report, free of charge, whether or not you suspect any unauthorized activity on your account. You may obtain a free copy of your credit report from each of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies. To order your free credit report, please visit www.annualcreditreport.com, or call toll-free at 1-877-322-8228. You can also order your annual free credit report by mailing a completed Annual Credit Report Request Form (available at https://www.consumer.ftc.gov/articles/0155-free-credit-reports) to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA, 30348-5281.

Fraud Alerts: You can place fraud alerts with the three credit bureaus by phone or online. A fraud alert tells creditors to follow certain procedures, including contacting you, before they open any new accounts or change your existing accounts. For that reason, placing a fraud alert can protect you, but also may delay you when you seek to obtain credit. As of September 21, 2018, initial fraud alerts last for one year. Victims of identity theft can also get an extended fraud alert for seven years.

Monitoring: You should always remain vigilant for incidents of fraud and identity theft by reviewing credit card account statements and by monitoring your credit report for suspicious or unusual activity.

Security Freeze: You have the right to place a security freeze on your credit report. A security freeze is intended to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. To place a security freeze on your credit report, you need to make a request to each consumer reporting agency. You may make that request by certified mail, overnight mail, regular stamped mail, or by following the instructions found at the websites listed below. The following information must be included when requesting a security freeze (note that if you are requesting a credit report for your spouse or a minor under the age of 16, this information must be provided for him/her as well): (1) full name, with middle initial and any suffixes; (2) Social Security number; (3) date of birth; (4) current address and any previous addresses for the past five years; and (5) any applicable incident report or complaint with a law enforcement agency or the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The request must also include a copy of a government-issued identification card and a copy of a recent utility bill or bank or insurance statement. It is essential that each copy be legible, display your name and current mailing address, and the date of issue. As of September 21, 2018, it is free to place, lift, or remove a security freeze. You may also place a security freeze for children under the age of 16. You may obtain a free security freeze by contacting any one or more of the following national consumer reporting agencies:
